DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention.

It is not understood how the magnetic memory elements 222 and 223 can perform properly the read/write operation when the read conductors and the write conductors are electrically connected together without having any isolating layer in between.

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

4. Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The common conductors are not readable on the respective drawings of the present invention. Applicant is requested to point out which element in the drawings of the present invention to be read on the claimed common conductors in order to help the examiner to understand the claimed subject matter of the invention.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 1-20 are, insofar as understood, rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Broyles et al., 6,356,965, in view of Reohr et al., 6,404,671.

What is not shown in Fig. 1 of Broyles et al., 6,356,965, is the memory means for storing information.

Reohr et al., 6,404,671, discloses in Fig. 1A a magnetic memory device comprising:

first magnetic memory elements 112 and 114;

first group of conductors 106, 108 and 110;

second magnetic memory elements 116 and 118;

second group of conductors 120 and 122;

common group of conductors 100, 102 and 104.

It would have been obvious under 35 USC 103(a) to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to utilize the magnetic memory device in Fig. 1A of Reohr et al., 6,404,671, for the memory 104 in Fig. 1 of Broyles et al., 6,356,965, for the purpose of providing an improved write margin (see last four lines of column 3 of Reohr et al., 6,404,671).

Art Unit: 2818

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
